

My text from bottom left:

I love the variety of shops in Doncaster town centre and how many of them are local rather than big chains. It has been nice to see a few high-end stores coming in too. I've nicknamed Priory Walk 'Classy Corridor' with the addition of Flannels and The Shoe Room which both score big on shop presentation.

Waterdale is great for independent shops. I spend far too much time in Rewind, a beautiful vintage store, while tucked round the corner is a little kitchen making a gorgeous spicy paste from Georgia, called Ajika. It's always worth taking a side street in Doncaster as there is likely to be a wonderful shop selling something you never thought would be available.

I've lived in Doncaster a year and the retail options keep getting better. I can't wait to see what is opening up next.